Beating The Boss

The Boss Gets a Second Setback

Chapter 3

After Baxter and Gray had left the Cannon home, Harry and Barbara found Little and Bertha quite concerned over Baxter's threat to prevent their holding their positions as teachers in the schools for they had long known that he had his eye on everything, was vindictive and that very few people dared to oppose him.

The loss of Bertha's position with an only brother, Ben, fifteen years old, to look after, was a serious matter in her crippled condition. The two were up and had been left when their mother and father died with but little means except a well furnished stand on North Street running diagonally to Main Street and extending across the river westerly and easterly. ## GREENWOOD CITY

The neighborhood was very much saddened July 21 by the sudden death of Mrs. Olive Morgan, wife of Robert Morgan. She leaves, besides her husband, two sons, Bernard and Clyde, also one daughter, Faye, a mother also several brothers and sisters as well as a host of friends to mourn their loss.

The funeral was held Thursday at the Greenwood City church, burial was in the Bennett yard. There was a profusion of flowers of which she was very fond.
